Greeting.

Kind reader, the Class of 1904 extends to you greeting.

It has devolved upon us to perform the difficult task of publishing the LANTHORN, and it has been with a deep sense of responsibility that we have taken up the work. It was the general opinion among the student body, we think, that, on account of its small size, the Class of 1904 would not attempt to publish an annual. But, not wishing to leave out one link of the chain so excellently begun seven years ago, and believing, as the class has proved in days gone by, that strength does not always lie in numbers, we set to work with indomitable will.

It has been our aim to send out not a large book, but one whose merit would be its quality. Everything between the two covers has been carefully thought over and weighed. Then, too, our aim has been an annual by the Junior Class exclusively, and, with one exception, the work has been kept within those bounds.

We have no apology to make. Our work is not perfect, but we have done our best. Criticism will come, and we expect it. If it would not, we might think ourselves infallible and creatures of another world.

In conclusion, we wish to express our appreciation to all who have in any way given us help or encouragement. Our motto has been: "Malice toward none; charity to all," and, hoping the LANTHORN will be received in this spirit, we beg to remain

*****

Rev. George W. Enders was born in Norheim, Prussia, Germany, October 26, 1841. He attended the German schools until he was twelve years of age, and then came to America with his parents and settled in New York, and later in New Jersey. He attended the public schools, and in 1861 entered Hartwick Seminary, where for the seven years of his stay he was a leader among his fellows. During the last two years of his seminary course he organized and built his first Lutheran church at Maryland, Otsego county, N. Y. In 1868 he was ordained, and in 1869 accepted a call to Bridgton, N. J., during which pastorate he spent one year in post-graduate work at Mt. Airy Seminary and the University of Pennsylvania. In 1870 he married Miss Phoebe A. Miller, organist of Emmanuel Lutheran church of Friesburg, N. J., and he and his bride took a wedding tour through England, Ireland, France, Switzerland and Germany.

After three and a half years at Bridgton, Pastor Enders accepted a unanimous call to St. James church, Gettysburg, Pa. Here great success was achieved, but by overwork his health failed, and he was compelled to lay aside the active ministry for over two years. He resigned, and in June, 1876, accepted a call to St. Paul's Lutheran church, Richmond, Ind., where he labored with great favor for over six years and built up a strong congregation. In July, 1882, Rev. Mr. Enders became pastor of Christ Lutheran church of York, Pa., the largest congregation in the city. During the twenty-one years of his pastorate there he has done very efficient work, many improvements have been made, buildings built and the enrollment of the Sunday School increased to over 1300.

Dr. Enders, besides his pastoral activity, has also been largely engaged in the general work of the church. He has been in frequent demand to lay cornerstones, to dedicate churches, and to aid in financial efforts. By his instrumentality about $250,000 have been raised for church and educational purposes. He has personally organized and inspired the organization of not less than seventeen new congregations, and put not less than twelve men into the Lutheran ministry, served several years as president of the Olive Branch Synod of Indiana, six times as delegate to the General Synod, and fourteen years as a member of the Board of Home Missions of which he is now Vice President. He has served several terms as director of Wittenberg College, Springfield, O., fifteen years as director of the Theological Seminary at Gettysburg, Pa., and ten years as director of Susquehanna University. In 1878 Wittenberg College conferred upon him the degree of A. M., and in 1888 that of D. D.

His services have been sought several times by various institutions of the Lutheran church as teacher or professor, but he never saw his way clear to accept, preferring the pastorate with its pulpit and pastoral opportunity. However, in June, 1902, the Board of Directors of Susquehanna University prevailed upon him to accept a unanimous call to become president of the University. He accepted the responsible position, but with the understanding that he would not relinquish his pastorate at York. This was unanimously agreed to. He has now about completed his first year of official duties, and has given much time to the care and prosperity of the school. The faculty has been strengthened and so organized that harmony and success are everywhere evident. Rev. Dr. Enders is equally at home in the pulpit or in the teacher's chair. He is a born linguist and a natural teacher. He has ever been a leader of men and successful in everything he undertook.

Senior History.

The final cycle of our college quaternion is rapidly drawing to a close. Swiftly and joyously indeed has the blossoming future ripened into the present, and with ever hurrying decay, changed into the eternally growing past. That fleeting duration has been pregnant with marvelous change and growth. Four years ago our class was adopted as a ward by our Alma Mater. We entered her halls hopeful and expectant. Though at times anxiety reigned in our midst, yet ready pluck and resolute determination carried us through every struggle, so that we came off more than conquerors of external surroundings, because every difficulty encountered and manfully won made us stronger and prepared us for more strenuous duties.

The glorious and venturesome achievements of our Freshman year well justified the esteem of our friends and the manly recognition of our foes. The sharply contested victory during the following year over our chivalrous opponents brought new laurels to our intrepid class. The fair Amazons of 1903 covered themselves with glory and honor on that eventful day. Their hearty and daring co-operation was the crowning action that completely brought to naught the haughty advances of our antagonists. As 'Jolly Juniors' the result of our labors is in a more tangible form and commends itself to everyone for just and unbiased criticism. But as Seniors we are unmindful of the struggles that were our chief concern during the early years. Duties of a higher plane press themselves upon us. We are now trying manfully to meet them.

To show her appreciation of our efforts and her confidence in our ability, our Alma Mater has entrusted many responsibilities into our hands. Captains, managers and editors have been chosen from our ranks. She has also honored our body by calling from our circle presidents to be the heads of many of our various associations. From our midst have those also been called who are to uphold our institution's honor and name in the college debating world. Ample, indeed, are these reasons to prove that our labors have not been in vain, nor has the care of our Alma Mater been futile.

But Time, so kind and beneficent to us in the past, is bringing to us thoughts of parting. Friendships that have grown strong by daily intercourse are about to be deprived of the privilege of almost constantly enjoying each other's companionship. Hearts that have become closely knit by kindred struggles and mutual successes or reverses soon will have to undergo the throes of parting. The school we all so well loved will send us out into the world, each to seek out his own destiny and reflect honor upon her. May each one be strong in his determination to make the most of the training he has received here, and go on fighting the battle of life as manfully as he has stood by his class. But in the great maelstrom of human activity, let not one follower of the "Red and Blue" forget her. May every member ever look back on the memories of his beloved class with a tenderness and affection that shall brighten the dimmed eye and the lonely heart of after years.

HISTORIAN.

Auf Wiedersehen.

Like the passing of the day-time
Our college days have flown,
And the time has come for parting
From the college friends we've known.

The ties of love that bind us
As classmates—strong and sure—
Are now just at the testing,
And long may they endure.

Thro' trials of wit and friendship
We've passed from year to year—
So close now are we joined in one
That parting brings a tear.

Then clasp hands, loyal classmates,
Clasp hands, yes, all around,
Before these ties are severed
By which Naught Three is bound.

Like the flower that's had its blooming
And now it's seed time's come
To scatter o'er the wide world
The fruitage of its bloom—

So we must now start sowing
The knowledge we have won,
And also keep increasing
Until our journey's run.

We've traveled well together
Thro' all these happy days,
And now the journey's over
We face the forking ways.

May all these ties be strengthened
As now we leave these halls,
And friendships still grow stronger
Where e'er the future calls.

Then classmates there's our parting,
What e'er our lot may be
Remember, love and cherish
The ties of Nineteen-Three.

Don't say "good-bye" at parting;
Let each fair hope remain,
And with hands clasped together
Say then "auf wiedersehen."

Junior History.

Noiselessly and cautiously the evening comes when the day is done. Nothing seems to tell you of the passing time, until waking up, you see the lengthening shadows or the curtaining night. So quietly, yet swiftly our college days are passing. Like the artist intent on his task, and who does not think of noon till he hears the mantle clock, we labor on. Each day brings us new cares and joys, to which attending, not repining for the past nor troubling about the future, we are contented and little notice the passing time until it is gone.

This class began with nine robust members—one lady and eight boys. Years have brought changes. Some have gone, others have come. When September days bid us return last fall, we were just six—six “Jolly Juniors.” One chose to leave us, reducing the number to five—“Allie,” “Katharine,” “Gundy,” “Fritz” and “Cal.” We are not many, but plenty, if we do our parts well. What man attributes his greatness to a large class roll? We think our lot a happy one. We enter the class room with those with whom we are well acquainted. Though sometimes inconvenient, yet we are greatly blessed.

We have passed through conflicts great and won victories beneath the stripes of our banner "Red and White." Victories are not always to greater numbers as our former histories will tell, but to those best fitted in tact and bravery. But we can not measure success by the rushes in college; we have greater tasks before us. On our breastplate we wear our motto "Vincit qui se vincit." In this final battle we have not yet fought. We are conquering ourselves day by day, by lesson, by trial. If we do this well we are accomplishing a grand thing, for then the battle of life will be a victory for us, as our motto is true.

Each year impresses us more with the vastness of knowledge and our responsibilities. We now begin to see that things we once thought useless were the great foundation timbers of our course. Those seemingly unnecessary cares have made us more able to bear the more valuable ones. Each trial makes us more able to bear the next one. Thus we hope to be led to grander accomplishments and a more metropolitan view of life.

Junior Poem.

'Neath the Southern Sun's bright streaming
Lies a way of vernal hue,
Where the stars are always beaming
And the sky is always blue.

Here the song-birds sweetly whisper
Peace and rest to weary souls,
And the blossoms waft their fragrance
Where the river softly rolls.

Roses red and white commingled
Deck the rustic garden walls;
Golden daisies spread their beauty
Where the babbling water falls.

'Long this road would mortals linger
Thinking naught but earthly bliss,
Wishing only that their journey
Would not lead away from this.

Far toward the Northern Winters
Lies another pilgrim way,
Where the beams of summer sunshine
Never pierce the mists of day.

Here the road is hard and flinty,
Shrubby scant and low and bare;
Chilling winds forever howling
Through the damp and dismal air.

Ease is distant from this pathway
Where the thorns and rocks abound;
Peace is never heard nor whisper'd,
Neither song-birds ever found.

Happy art thou, gentle pilgrim,
If along this weary way,
Fate will never bid thee journey
Never ask of thee to stay.

With these pictures set before thee
Thou canst trace nought-four's advance
Through the sunshine and the shadow,
Ever true as knightly lance.

Pleasures many marked her progress,
Joys that filled her heart with song,
Crowned the years since she was ushered
From the world's unlettered throng.

Time doth always mix the bitter
In the cup of happiness
And the gloomy days oft follow
Those ye would forever bless.

Gloomy were the days when classmates
Chose to leave these college walls,
Leaving only few to answer
Duty's summons when she calls.

Loss of courage has not known you,
Loyal classmates brave and fair,
Never will it sink your spirits,
Never cause you to despair.

Travel onward sure and steady,
Let the past remembrance be
Inspiration for the future,
Stretching out so full and free.

Sophomore History.

Among the groups of students joyfully returning to the duties of college life in those pleasant September days, might be seen here and there the sedate countenances of members of '05, eagerly greeting their classmates. This was not the first time the class met upon the beautiful grounds and within the classic halls of Susquehanna. They had passed through the conflicts of one year in college, and the successful outcome of that year placed their valor beyond reproach and already assured their fame. Now, although reduced in numbers, they begin the second year's work with courage undaunted.

Amidst the daily round of study and pleasure, time passes rapidly. Thus the autumn days grew shorter and the balmy winds were succeeded by wintry storms, with scarcely a rumor or incident worthy to arouse the fighting blood of '05. Once, and only once, a conflict seemed imminent. Some Freshies, fresh from the green fields, climbed a green tree and hung a freshly conceived banner from the green branches.

Morning found these Freshmen refreshing their weary bodies upon the green grass beneath the green tree. However, the Sophomores did not allow a little thing like this to fluster them. They quietly went to their breakfast, as usual, after which they met and deliberated upon what course of action they should pursue. The Freshmen, evidently thinking that some mighty plot, which would terminate in their destruction, was sure to be evolved when such a learned body consulted together, soon lost all courage. They again climbed the tree, removed the colored cloth, and quickly dispersed.

By far the most enjoyable event of the year was the second annual banquet held at Hotel Hart, Wilkesbarre, Pa., Friday night, January 16, 1903. The class left Selinsgrove the evening previous, and spent Friday visiting places of interest in and about the city. In the evening they attended the theatre in a body, where they had the pleasure of hearing Amelia Bingham's company of noted artists in "A Modern Magdalen." After the class returned from the theatre, the dinner was served in a style possible only at a first-class city hotel.

The class contains among its members some who are destined to become illustrious, but they would not relish having the full story of their college days told at the present time. So we ask you, kind reader, to wait for further information until the biographies of these gentlemen are published in which full particulars will be given.

Class Poem.

'Twas an eve in bleakest winter,
All without was cold and damp,
In his room with book and paper
Sat a student by his lamp.
Weary was his mind with labor
After toiling at his Greek,
Softly came a low voice saying—
“Hither come, with you I'd speak,”

So while sleep enwrapped the student,
Far away his mind did soar
With a serious little genius
Who within his heart did pour
Intimations of the future,
Cautions for the student life,
Gave him hope and helpful counsel
To assist in life's great strife.

When they reached that hidden hilltop,
Which looks forward into time
Gently did the genius stop him—
“Go you cannot in yon clime !

We will stop here to consider
And discuss the things we see
Far, far in the distant landscape,—
Hearken carefully to me.

“Do you see the many pathways,
As they stretch before our sight ?
These start back into the present,
So beware, all are not right !
Some you see are wide and crooked,
Others have a downward grade,
Some indeed are quite attractive,
By a wily tempter made.

“Life, my friend, is a great journey
Toward two very different goals,
One is reached by many pathways
Traveled by so many souls.
But you see, by careful vision,
That one straight and narrow path;
This is where you'll be contented
For it real, true pleasures hath.

“Pleasures not of worldly nature,
But those giv’n by doing right,
Helping men who need assistance,
As they struggle in the fight.
Love of mankind is the motto
Of this humble, upward way,
And its travelers are placid,
Free are they from sad dismay.

“Now, young man, you are in college
Cultivating heart and mind
To prepare for life’s one journey,—
May you many treasures find.
But those powers will be curses
If you use them not with might
On the upward, hopeful pathway
Which leads on to ceaseless light.

“Choose, then, whither you will travel,
Choose you must, as all must do,
But beware, allurements anxious
Wait to draw and ruin you.
So I leave, but well remember
All things you have heard me say
Will prove blessings or be curses
In some distant future day.”

Then awoke the sleepy student
To find all this a mere dream;
But its lesson ne’er will leave him
He will ne’er forget its theme,
Classmates dear, and fellow students,
Let us learn its precepts bright,
That our lives may all be useful
Just because we chose aright.

Class Song.

TUNE—"When Dewey Comes Sailing Home Again."

We are the class of nineteen-five

We are, we are.

The only class in which there's fun,

We are, we are.

Of Susquehanna we are the pride;

We can't be beat— we have been tried

And they all know it far and wide.

A jolly throng—the Prof's delight,

We are, we are.

A class in which there's strength and might

We are, we are.

In which you learn to your surprise,

There's brawn and brain that's bound to rise

To a constellation in the skies.

We have the hope of forever going,

We have, we have,

Ours the bliss of forever knowing

We have, we have.

Ours the comfort that we are growing

First in pride and first in glee,

First in the hearts of the facultee.

O ye Seniors, that stand so near us,

Look here, look here.

O Collegians, taught to fear us,

Look here, look here.

O Alumni, cheer us, cheer us,

First in pride and first in glee,

First in the hearts of the facultee.

Freshman History.

Just as the leaves spring forth from the buds in the spring of the year, so we sprang from the Preparatory department, and, at the opening of the scholastic year, took our stand as Freshmen. We have been gathered from all directions and from different vicissitudes of life to be transplanted in the fertile soil of S. U. We became Freshmen, a word defined by some "a child of nature," "a half baked product of our public school system," "a tremendous interrogation point," "a neophyte or tyro." Be the definition what it will, we are not ashamed of our matriculation, our work, our standing, nor our progress as a class, but rather glory in our achievements and success.

All who would be Seniors, all who have preceded us, at one time stood on the very basis where we stepped on board, and what is more encouraging is to hear our loved Professors say that we are making better progress than any class heretofore.

We lined up twenty strong, all of whom had been prepared in the Prep. department, with the exception of the Misses Beaver and Smith, and Phillips. To twenty workers so fresh and strong what evil could befall?—"The Sophs."

We moved along as best we knew, thinking of course that the "Sophs" would direct us to the right, if we should wander on forbidden paths. They knew how! They had been led the year before.

But "no." "All things come to him who waits" proved an unworthy maxim to us, and sallying forth on the 29th of September with our motto, "Labor omnia vincit," we proceeded to raise our banner of brown and blue, and post bills telling the "Sophs," if there were any, what we thought of them and what they were to do. The morning of the 30th of September was bright and clear about the buildings of Susquehanna; the air rang with the Freshman's yell. It proved an easy day for the Professors, since but few students reported to classes. Noon arrived, and our banner still waved defiantly on the top of the tree, without even an attempt by the weak and nervous "Sophs." Then strong and steady hands lowered it, glorying in a decisive victory over the "Sophs."

November 26 was made memorable by the first wearing of our class caps of brown and blue.

January 22, 1903, proved one of the most pleasurable days in our collegiate year. A day long to be remembered by the participants. It was the day of our first annual banquet. Not as the fleeing but rather as the conqueror we marched to the station, boarded a special car unmolested by anyone, and were soon spinning across the broad Susquehanna. This was in the afternoon. The evening found us at the Haag Hotel, Milton. The early part of the evening was spent very pleasantly. Promptly at ten o'clock all entered the banquet hall and surrounded the well laden table. Fun and toasts mingled with our feasting. The menu having been served, all returned to the parlor where the night was far spent in the rendering of an excellent program of music and reading. We returned home the next forenoon having enjoyed ourselves in every way possible.

The above is but a part of our history. Not all good things come with pleasure and enjoyment. Great rewards sometimes lie in hard-fought battles. Gains are not always felt. As we approach the end of our first collegiate year, we feel confident that the majority can look back upon their year's work without regret; and we hope for still greater achievements, class spirit as one, in the years to come.

HISTORIAN.

Freshman Poem.

In the early days of September,
In the year of nineteen-two,
Selinsgrove will e'er remember,
When first we came to old S. U.

We were strangers all could see,
So young, in ignorance so plenty,
We came to enter the University,
Few in number, only twenty,

Fresh, yes this we must admit,
We were not supposed to know
But we hoped by training fit
That our minds would surely grow,

Every one at us did stare,
As we moved with trembling pace,
As if we had no business here,
But belonged to another place.

Indeed, we felt so very small,
Only Freshmen, nothing more.
It pained us much to see the gall
Of our friend (?) the Sophomore.

They intended, so they said,
In a sort of dignified way,
To do us "Freshies,"—yes they did—
When they had their great class day.

But alas! The "Sophies" thought
In their philosophic way,
They would let the matter drop
And have no great class day.

Surprised they were and gave a sigh
When to their wandering gaze,
They saw our colors flying high
Flung to the balmy breeze.

Could they take them down?
They decided they would try,
For they hated the Blue and Brown
Above them so defiantly.

Each "Freshie" now resolved to stand
For his colors firm and true,
They looked so beautiful and grand.
The wise old "Sophs" we must subdue.

Just then the "Sophies" lost their sand,
Their courage all run through,
They could not do as they had planned
And surrendered to the "Brown and Blue."

"A victory," cried the "Freshies" all,
Now proud old "Sophs" give way,
"Victory" sounded through the hall
For the Freshman won the 'fray.

Now to our tasks again we go
Each one working hard and strong;
For progress you know is very slow,
"Time is fleeting but Art is long."

"Labor omnia vincit" we know,
We are resolved to conquer, too;
No enemy us can overthrow,
While to our motto we are true.

Hard workers you know must eat,
So when we did hungry get,
Regardless of the "Sophs," our treat
We took and had a time—you bet.

We ate, and ate, not all bread,
For that will not suffice you know,
On choicest thoughts at last we fed,
On material to make us grow.

Now, O Freshmen ! Let us be true,
True to God and true to man,
Stand nobly for the "Brown and Blue"
Like noble and stout-hearted heroes stand.

Philo History.

As we attempt once more to review another year spent and gone of our Society's history, we feel there is just cause for rejoicing. Not that we have accomplished anything phenomenal, but that we continue to exist with the same vigor, strength and number as formerly.

In nature, existence is continually onward, never losing its former growth, but always beginning in the spring where the frost checked it in the fall. And consequently as the years go by, the small sapling becomes the great tree; it increases in quantity, but the quality remains the same. But in our society work the growth must combine both. Year by year we lose many from our number, and so the simple fact that we exist as strong as ever shows a steady but sure numerical growth. But surely in quality our work is ever onward, for yearly there pass from our ranks our best and most efficient workers, and thus to stand at even the same level demonstrates a sure and continual growth in quality.

As year by year there pass from our ranks our staunch and loyal members, we often doubt of their places being filled; but there are always those who become the Elishas and take upon themselves at the call of duty and privilege the cloak of the departed Elijahs, meeting all the responsibilities to the measure of highest expectation. And so, though we shall soon reach our one-half century's existence, it has been one continuous life and growth. Years change the natural world and the nations that govern it, but time's decaying and obliterating finger has not touched our society. Year by year she sends forth her sons and daughters to meet the responsibilities and fight the battles of life, while at the same time she prepares others at home for the same; and as her fit reward and recompense she continually hears the echo of their noble deeds and achievements and the influence exerted in the onward progress of the world.

There are of course times when we are not at the height of activity that we might be, but where in church, state, domestic or private life do we find activity always at fever heat? Prosperity does bring ease and indifference, but whenever the occasion has demanded, Philo has never failed to come forth and do as her true and faithful predecessors have taught her.

No one in writing history can help but feel enthused at the work of the founders and preservers of every institution of help to mankind. So as our hand pens these lines we feel we must say a word to the noble souls and faithful members that have left us. Your memory still lingers as ennobling and thrilling our lives and efforts; and of you can truly be said, as of our own ancestors and the patriots of our country, that your memory is even an inspiration and an ever-abiding influence.

Our annual reception was held at the Opera House on the evening of June ninth. It was very well attended and was in every respect an enjoyable and social occasion. Graduation took from our numbers seven of our best and faithful members. While we felt reluctant to see them go, yet we felt sure they were fully prepared to and nobly would meet the responsibilities of life.

Also on the night of Hallow E'en, October thirty-first, we put aside our regular programme for a social time. Our hall was beautifully decorated and an excellent programme was rendered.

It was our exceeding great pleasure to receive a very large number of our new students this fall and throughout the year. And now to those who shall have the work of the future: let us ever be true and faithful, remembering that from both nature and religion we learn that we cannot live upon past success and blessing, but must press on continually the same as before. And so, ever true to our motto, "Non Festinato non Cessato," may our progress ever be steadily onward and upward. May we all now and ever remember the three unchanging attributes of our society, test her and she never fails; use her and she always helps; misuse her and she can but pity.

Clio History.

Wherever human beings congregate or associate, there is history. The trees and flowers have bloomed and again shed their leaves since our predecessor recorded the deeds and actions of Clio. Another year can again be scheduled as ended. The present slowly fades and is added to the past; the past increases holding for us the present of long ago. The year that has just flitted by is by no means unworthy of record; for in the bulk of the woven threads of the University, Clio has conspicuously done her part.

We truly may look with gratitude upon a year which has been full of success. How can a society ever conscious of her power in modeling, disciplining and strengthening, fail? In a just cause we can but progress. The life of a nation is determined by the lives of its individuals. Lives of individuals are not measured by years, months and days, but by their actions and deeds. It has ever been the aim of Clio to produce men. Her earliest breath showed it. It still is her proud ejaculation; and may it ever be the goal of her ambition.

A large number of accessions to membership was made during the past year, and while we glory in it, yet the main thing is the quality of the number. All new members have proven themselves of sterling value, and have awakened new life in the old. Good interest is manifested both in attendance and in the preparation and rendering of the programs from week to week.

Several special sessions and receptions, which were largely attended by her friends, have been the means of breaking the monotonous weekly exercises, and have inculcated a desire for better work. Changes are necessary in the scaling of the ladder of fame; rest should be excluded or defined as a change.

While we have reasons to be proud of our accomplishments in the past, it is well not to neglect the present, or the future will suffer for it. Judging from the past, which is our only guide, we see only prosperity. Let us continue to be true and loyal to the "Old Gold and Blue," ever striving for the right; and may her banner ever float on the highest pinnacle of success, ever leading to the goal of a high and noble purpose.

History of the “Gym.”

The history of the “Gym” must start back in the year 1891, when our college was yet under the name of Missionary Institute. Well do we remember how the students then longed for a place where they might exercise. We had read how at other colleges such advantages as club swinging, dumb-bell drills, the horizontal and parallel bars, and the bowling alley afforded recreation and exercise for its students. After trying various methods to secure some of the above-named up-to date college conveniences, a subscription was started among the students, and four or five dollars were at first raised to secure some apparatus. We secured two good hickory bars of the right size, and one of them was placed on the campus, at a large tree which still stands in front of the present site of our new building. This was the first attempt at a gymnasium.

Shortly afterward, permission was secured from Dr. Dimm, who then had charge of the school, to use one of the rooms in the basement of the only building then on the campus. The room was low and had only a floor of mother earth. In order to erect a bar to be used at any advantage in this room, it became necessary to dig a pit in the floor. Accordingly a sloping pit, three or four feet deep, was dug, and a horizontal bar erected. The next addition to our "Gym" was a pair of boxing gloves and a set of heavy iron dumbbells. This was the extent of the equipment of the first gymnasium. Here for several years the students enjoyed themselves as best they could. A little later the bar on the campus was removed from its first location and placed at a tree back of the building now known as Selinsgrove Hall.

In the year 1900, after the Gustavus Adolphus Building had been erected and completed, a room in the basement of this new building was fitted up as a temporary gymnasium. Several pieces of good apparatus were placed in this room, and classes were organized and regularly drilled by appointed instructors. But this room was poorly ventilated and the ceiling so low that no satisfactory work was possible. The great need of baths and other equipment was evident. The basket ball team needed a place both for practice and to play its games. The only available place being the Town Hall, which was a very inconvenient place, besides necessitating additional expense. The base ball team also needed a place to practice its pitchers and catchers during the winter months. All these conveniences were felt to be greatly needed and we longed to see them supplied, that our athletics might have a fair show among our sister colleges. The "Gym" team could not carry out its desires and they, too, were anxious to have more suitable quarters to exercise and prepare and give their exhibitions. Several promises were made that we should have a new building with modern equipment, but these promises were made only to be broken year after year.

Finally, after repeated disappointments, the students, on the night of September 25, 1901, after the famous "Night-shirt parade," celebrated a mock corner-stone laying, with fitting services for the occasion. This happened just the day before the corner-stone laying of the Seibert Memorial Hall.

On the evening of May 1, 1902, there was held in College Chapel, a "Grand Rally" of the student body, for the purpose of starting a Gymnasium Fund. After some stirring addresses were delivered, pledges for the purpose of securing subscriptions were passed around among the students. The grand result of this effort showed a subscription of $1,205 pledged by the students alone, on the condition that we have a new Gymnasium, erected and equipped in modern style, by April 1, 1903. Following this meeting was another grand "Night-shirt parade" over the town. Transparencies and banners bearing our sentiments were displayed, and the whole procession was headed by an impromptu Brass Band, made up for the occasion by the student body.

This meeting was the crowning point in the history of the "Gym," for it was here that the "Gym" was really born. During the month of August, 1902, the ground was broken for its erection, and although the work at first was slow and discouraging, it finally was gotten under headway. The building is now a reality. No more promises to be broken. We have at last secured our prize and an addition to our college which will do it honor and credit in years to come. Long shall we remember the night of May 1, 1902.

Heard and Seen in Sophomore Alley.

*****

September 30, 1902.

Allenbach, (looking out of his window, 7 a. m.) "Mein Gootness ! Gracions ! If dos measley Freshmen hafn't got der flag on dat tree. What wir do?" Nervously he dresses himself and hastens to break the news to "Walt" and "Skinny" and the rest of the timid "bunch."

Soon there was weeping and wailing and all manner of confusion on the second and third floors. A Freshman appears and then seven pairs of big feet beat a double quick retreat to Hoch's room and bar the door. What was said and done there was afterwards told verbatim by a Sophomore to his brother, who is a Junior.

App, (shaking in his boots): "H-Hoch, w-where is your hammer and nails. Hurry up ! Nail the door and transom "

Ketterman: "Quick, lemme your broom and I'll kill"—

But just then he heard some one coming along the hall. The broom fell from his hands and he dropped over on the bed in fright. The cause of the fright proved to be only a Senior who had come to give consolation and to stimulate a little courage in them.

After they were soothed and composed a little, they began to realize that the Sophomore class honor had gone away down below par, and a half-hearted desire came over them to redeem it.

President Young, (trying hard to conceal his fear and nervousness): "Keep cool like me, brave classmates, and that flag must come down."

Whitmoyer: "Well then, Mr. President, I move we get together some hatchets and guns and whatever other instruments we have, and go out right away and tear it down."

(Confusion and cries on all sides): "Oh!"—"No!"—"Never!"—"Do you think I'm a fool!"

Allenbach: "Glassmates, don't; don't go oud. Mein Edna will haf no Glaudie denn!"

Showers, (from under the bed): "Whit, you ought to be throwed out of the class for suggestin' that. I'm not afraid, but if I ever would come out of the scrap alive and get home to Centreville, my girl wouldn't own me."

Hoch, (standing near the door trembling): "Walt! Ike! Listen! Some one coming!"

At that there was a great scramble. Some crawled under the bed; some under the table; others squeezed into the wardrobe; and still others on the top of it.

About the space of an hour there was breathless silence in the room as they listened to the challenges of the Freshmen on the campus. Finally a great shout of triumph was heard; then the frightened Sophs, knowing that the time which the Freshmen had given them to come out and take down the flag had expired, heaved a great sigh of relief.

NOTICE.

Meeting of the Board of Directors of the Athletic Association at 4 P. M. To-day.

After a delay caused by a search for the president, secretary or some other indispensable member who had stowed himself away in some secret retreat, the above board finally convened at four twenty-nine, and after the usual formal opening got down to business (?).

President, (in a donkey-like tone): "Well what is the agony we are to discuss this afternoon?"

Hoch: "I object to the use of that word agony, Mr. President: it should be excruciating pain."

President: "Well, we'll let it"—

Bass drum voice across the room: "I think it is about time we're thinking about that base ball team. What are we going to do about a pitcher?"

Pearson: "Yes, that's what I say. Some one busted mine carrying water for the foot ball team last fall, and I've been waiting for the board to buy me a new one."

Hoch: "Man, are you asleep already? Why, we're only beginning the meeting."

Prof. Birch: "That's right, we do need a pitcher. Has the base ball manager got any one in sight?"

Catheman: "Yes, a fellow by the name of McDoogan from over in New Belfast; but there's not much known about him; he has only pitched on a little town team."

Prof. Wallize: "Those are often the best kind. Why, look at that man Smeltz who came to Lafayette from Pittsburg. They thought him a third-rater, but were fooled. Why, when the ball left his hand you could see only a shadow of it until you heard it hit the catcher's mit."

Houtz, (suddenly getting a thought): "By the way, how is the Glee Club getting along out in Pittsburg."

Lambert: "Tip-top."

Davis: "Yes, they're having fine houses, getting lots to eat, and don't have to study a lesson."

At the mention of something to eat the president got awake and wanted to know whether there was a motion before the house.

Catheman: "No."

President: "Well then, you're all out of order."

Catheman: "But we must get a pitcher."

Prof. Wallize: "Did you ever look for any over in Lehigh or Berks county. Why the woods are full of them; they grow lots of them over there."

Prof. Houtz: "That reminds me"—

President Daubenspeck: "Take care there, you're liable to get out of order again."

Just as Davis snored the supper bell rang. In an instant he was awake and made for the door, but it was no use; the meeting was not over yet and he was hauled back.

Prof. Wallize, (jumping up and pleading): "I got to go; I'll lose my job if I'm not up there to see that supper is started off all right while Uncle Adam is away."

President: "Can't help it; we must finish this business."

After the storm subsided, Lambert arose: "Mr. President, I move that we adjourn to the dean's office so that Mr. Schoch may listen to and discuss these weighty questions with us over the telephone."

The motion was finally carried after much heated discussion during which Daubenspeck lost a bunch of his superthermeated hair.

After the assembly had transported and adjusted itself, Prof. Birch arose and exclaimed: "Who said money? How much do we owe?"

Treasurer: "I forgot my books, and besides, some of the bills are lost."

Prof. Birch: "That's doing business. Why, these people are clamoring for money and we don't know how much we owe them."

Davis, (jumping up and growling): "I'm getting hungry. I move we adjourn."

Three voices in unison: "Second the motion."

Prof. Birch: "But I'm not satisfied. Let's have something definite about these reports and bills."

President: "You've heard the motion; all in favor"—

Prof. Birch, (interrupting): "That motion has fallen through; something else has been talked about since that motion was made."

Two members near the door: "Well then, I move we adjourn."

But before the motion could be seconded, the last call for supper was heard, and there was a general stampede for the commissary department.

Significant.

April 13, 1902. Frank's Father-in-law (to be) sends him home at 9:30.

April 15. Willie and Martha play ball.

April 19. The Glee Club loses Barry in Harrisburg. She finds him, though, and sends him home with a package of pickles.

April 23. Base Ball team before faculty. "They were on their honeymoon."

April 25. Frank in Literature class: "All the latin I construe is "Amo," I love. Price in the same class: "I am marry (merry)."

May 20. Heicher and "Sox" pay storage and drayage on Price's trunk.

June 3. Haus takes sick (?) at his girl's and remains all night.

June 4, 11 p. m. The last escapade in the old Dorm. The purgatorians elude Carrie and camp in the graveyard where Jean Snyder and Min Kline performed some stunts.

September 30. The timid Sophs betake themselves to a corner room and watch the Freshman flag wave from a tree top.

October 22. Love's labor's lost; Eph's girl marries another. "O, ye Gods!"

November 8. The white-robed angels from the "Dorm" make a second trip to the graveyard at 11 p. m. A detachment from Selinsgrove Hall goes in pursuit and is captured.

November 27. "Waggie" and Phillips take advantage of the Preceptress' absence and call at the "Dorm," but go home without their overcoats.

February 5, 1903. Barry, in conversation with His-a belle, thinks of his brother Missionary Carey's words and says, "I will go down, but remember you must hold the ropes." So Barry goes down town and when he returns the ropes are seen dangling from the second loft of the "Hen coop."

February 6. Dauby throws a kiss to Fanne in class.

February 12 Prof Birch starts a stampede among the Freshmen "ponies."

March 5. A light step across the veranda, an encircling, and a sweet "smack"—it was only Phillips and Miss Fickes saying good night, but it caused a great cackling in the coop.

The Most Important Days of the Year.

April 22, 1902. When the Y. W. C. A. was organized.

May 1. When the Board's slumbers were disturbed.

June 10. When the board got busy and elected a president and assured the "Gym."

June 11. When "I" graduated.

October 20. When labor received an impetus and the ditch was filled.

October 25. When the first load of heat came from the coal regions.

November 11. When Delmonico hit "Pop" Warner's back door.

December 11. When Seibert Hall was dedicated and the corner-stone of the "Gym" laid.

January 23, 1903. When "I" got my money.

Susquehanna University.

Rev. G. W. ENDERS, D. D., President.

Susquehanna University now has a corps of twenty-three instructors, and offers facilities for thorough instruction in the following courses :

- I. Theological, with a three full years' course.
- II. Collegiate, comprising (1) Classical, (2) General Scientific, (3) Young Women's Course.
- III. Music, Vocal and Instrumental.
- IV. Elocution and Oratory.
- V. Art.
- VI. College Preparatory Course of three years.
- VII. Commercial Course, including the common branches, Commercial Law, Book-Keeping, Shorthand, Typewriting, etc.
- VIII. The Teachers' Course. This course, covering a period of four years, is designed especially for teachers and leads to graduation. Each year opens about April 10th and closes about July 26th. This enables young men and women to teach during the winter months and pursue their education after their own schools have closed. It is possible for persons taking this course to take the State examination and get State certificates at the close of their work. The course also prepares for entrance into College.

IX. Summer Session of six weeks offering work, in the various departments, opens June 18, 1903.
NOTE—Courses mentioned under I, II and IV, lead to graduation with the usual degrees. Courses under III, V, VI, VII, VIII, lead to graduation.

Tuition in all courses low. Board and other charges reasonable.

AUTOMATIC * PROGRAM * CLOCK

rings Electric Bells and operates Secondary Clocks in all rooms, departments, buildings; the Electric Bells being rung automatically on the exact minute set down in the program for beginning and closing every period, assembling and dismissing school, etc., while the Secondary Clocks run on exact time with the Program Clock.

Promptness and punctuality are secured, discipline promoted and teachers relieved of one of the most perplexing duties of the school room.

You will be interested in knowing more about the Frick Automatic Program Clock, and its advantages in school management, and we take pleasure in mailing you catalogue and full information, if you will mention this ad.

Medico-Chirurgical College

OF PHILADELPHIA,

Department of Medicine,

offers exceptional facilities to graduates of Susquehanna University—especially to those who have taken a Medical, Preparatory, or Biological Course.

The instruction is thoroughly practical, particular attention being given to laboratory work and bed-side and ward class teaching.

Ward classes are limited in size. A modified Seminar method is a special feature of the course. Free quizzing in all branches by the Professors and a special staff of Tutors. Laboratories new and thoroughly modern.

The College has also a department of Dentistry, and a department of Pharmacy.

All Susquehanna University students are cordially invited to inspect the College and the Clinical Amphitheatre at any time.

299 PIANOS.

The New England Conservatory of Music, Boston, whose premiership among institutions of its class is a matter of common knowledge, when in the market for pianos twenty years ago, after exhaustive trials of the then celebrated makes, decided upon the

IVERS & POND

and ordered 50. That the decision was wise would be implied from their subsequent purchases of this make, until lately 268 had been bought. Now, when moving into its beautiful new building, the Conservatory looks over the piano market again, and finding its choice still that of twenty years ago, orders 31 Ivers & Pond pianos, making a total of 299 as follows:

1882 . . 50 Pianos.	1895 . . 20 Pianos.
1884 . . 6 "	1896 . . 15 "
1886 . . 17 "	1897 . . 12 "
1887 . . 2 "	1898 . . 12 "
1888 . . 6 "	1899 . . 12 "
1889 . . 12 "	1900 . . 15 "
1890 . . 72 "	1901 . . 2 "
1894 . . 15 "	1902 . . 31 "

---

Total 299 Pianos.

Can more conclusive evidence of continuity in sustaining and advancing an artistic standard be given than the above remarkable record? Ivers & Pond pianos, embodying half a century's experience in scientific piano building, were never so perfect as to-day. As exclusive representatives for their sale in this locality we invite your inspection of these remarkable instruments.
